

We, the undersigned organizations, write in strong support of SB 632 and HB 5290, legislation that would cap interest rates and fees on payday loans at an APR of 36%.

Payday lenders target our most vulnerable community members including veterans, seniors, communities of color, small business owners, and those who can least afford it. These predatory loans carry exorbitant fees equivalent to an average APR of 370% in Michigan.

While payday loans are marketed as a one-time financial fix for emergencies, data shows us that millions of people take out one payday loan only to reborrow again when that loan is due. This puts the borrower in perpetual debt, and results in them paying hundreds of dollars more in fees than the principal of their loans. Data from the Consumer Financial Protection Bureau shows that:

- 70% of Michigan's payday loan borrowers reborrow on the same day a previous loan is repaid, and
- 75% of payday lenders' revenue comes from borrowers caught in 10 loans per year.

On the other hand, families in states where payday lending has been outlawed report relief and support for maintaining the rate caps that disrupt the predatory payday lending business model. Twenty states plus the District of Columbia cap interest rates at 36% or less, effectively stopping the payday loan debt trap. Most recently, Minnesota, Nebraska, and Illinois have capped interest rates on payday loans at an APR of 36%. Notably at the federal level, the Military Lending Act caps lending rates to active-duty military at an APR of 36%.

Michigan payday lenders disproportionately target communities of color and rural areas. Data shows that there are 5.6 payday stores per 100,000 people in Michigan. In Black communities, that figure is 25% higher and in Latino communities the number of payday lending stores is 18% higher. Payday lenders also strategically set up stores in rural areas. The Center for Responsible Lending found that the rural census tracts have a payday store concentration of 7.1 payday lending stores per 100,000 people.

Recently, the Black Leadership Advisory Council appointed by the Governor released a report with policy recommendations to reduce inequities and promote economic growth and wealth equity for the Black community in Michigan. One of their formal recommendations to the Governor was to support legislation to place a 36% rate cap on predatory loans.

While consumers should have the power to make their own choices, Michigan should not authorize these clearly predatory products. Michigan's working families need access to safe, affordable options for overcoming a cash shortage, which former borrowers have found in states that outlaw the practice. The last thing these families need is to be trapped in high-cost loans that are nearly impossible to escape. Payday lenders siphon millions of dollars from the pockets of Michiganders and from our local economy, and further strain existing charitable or government services.

We urge you to support SB 632 and HB 5290, legislation that would cap interest rates and fees on payday loans at an APR of 36% and protect Michigan consumers.
