The City of Escanaba needs to replace a 1992 ladder fire truck that they had purchased used and that has reached the end of its useful life. Beyond the city limits, the city provides mutual aid to the region, including contractual services with Wells Township and Sault Tribe Housing. Their public safety department provides 24/7 fire response. Due to the nature of firefighting and old buildings in the region, the city has experienced casualties as a result of fire. In the last several years, the price of trucks has increased significantly. The city has applied for federal funding, but they have not yet received any funding. The city estimates that the cost for a ladder truck is $2 million. This aligns with the state's interest in funding public safety.
