Sterling Road is a county primary road and is classified as a minor rural collector in the national functional classification system of roads. Sterling Road is a major north-south route in the western portion of St. Clair County. In the rural area of the County, very few roads are paved. This road provides unrestricted paved access to the area. The closest paved road to the east is approximately 5 miles away. This vital link provides the area with ultimate access to I-69 or to the Metro Detroit where many local residents are employed. Continued deterioration will force the structure to have a reduced load posting and force commercial traffic to find a detour route.
