*Includes all Class I and Class II charges, including all Class I charges reduced to Class II. Excludes Class III (minor) misconducts, except for Class I and Class II charges reduced to Class III.

Class I misconducts include: assault and battery; assault resulting in serious injury; escape; failure to disperse; felony; fighting; homicide; incite to riot or strike; rioting or striking; possession of dangerous contraband; possession of weapon; sexual assault; sexual misconduct; smuggling; substance abuse; threatening behavior.

Class II misconducts include: bribery of an employee; creating a disturbance; destruction or misuse of property; disobeying a direct order; gambling; possession of gambling paraphernalia; insolence; interference with the administration of rules; out of place; possession of forged documents; forgery; possession of money; possession of stolen property; theft; unauthorized occupation of cell or room.

Class III misconducts include: abuse of privileges; contraband; excessive noise; health, safety, or fire hazard; horseplay; lying to an employee; temporary out of place/out of bounds; unauthorized communications; violation of posted rules.

Each class of misconduct has different review and hearing requirements. Class I misconducts may result in placement in segregation or loss of sentence credits (for those still serving eligible sentences), so are required to be handled by attorney hearing officers. Class II and Class III misconducts are handled by facility staff in an informal hearing process. Class II misconduct may be elevated to Class I based on the seriousness of the charge. Class I or Class II misconducts may be reduced to Class II or Class III based on evidence on the record.
